$5,000 VOTED TO
HELP SCHOOLS

Financial Condition not to Permit Giving Of Amount Asked

The Albany City council unanimously agreed last night to give $5,000 to the school system of the city following an appeal made at the last regular meeting of the council by B. L. Malone, representing the board of education.

At that time Mr. Malone asked for the sum of $10,000, but finances of the city prevented giving the entire amount.

Indications at the meeting are to the effect that the city will probe the valuations placed by individuals upon stocks of goods, merchandise, real and personal property. The city attorney was instructed to draw up an ordinance compelling citizens to give the full valuations for their properties.

The matter of the city park was likewise discussed and determined that the city park property should not be given over for farming purposes. This comes as the result of a petition by land owners who are situated near the city property extending from Fourth avenue east to the Somerville road, asking that the site not be marred by allowing individuals to farm upon it.

It was stated in the last meeting of the city council that the school system was in need of funds for the continuance of the present school year and the councilmen were heartily in accord with the idea of city aid regardless of the present low financial status of the city.

The matter of valuations of properties was entered into and quite a bit of discussion on the subject revealed that the city was not possibly obtaining the full amount of taxes on stocks of goods, merchandise, real and personal property. It is thought that this ordinance will greatly aid the city, the county and the state.

The city park property which extends from Fourth avenue to the Somerville road will no longer be given out by the city to be farmed upon following a petition that was placed before the council asking that the land site be beautified and improved. It is probable that the city will take up the matter of improvement within a very short while.

W. E. Sibley was the only councilman absent at the Friday meeting which was attended by a number of interested citizens. The meeting was one of the most productive that has been held in many months and opinions were expressed today that the council had made several important moves.

City Engineer Looks
After Complaint

Marion S. Bingham, city engineer was instructed to look into the complaints that are coming before the city council following the assessment of certain properties along 6th avenue north. It is understood that the complaints are based by the property owners on the fact that they do not live on the avenue and have been assessed with an intersection which they should not be charged with.

It is probable that the city engineer will make a report of his findings at the next meeting of the council.

Indictments were returned by the circuit court grand jury, discharged on Friday evening, charging Andrew McWilliams, negro, with the crime perpetrated against Mrs. Cleveland Reed, prominent Austinville woman during the latter days of January and J. The above cases will probably be included in the criminal docket of the circuit court during the fifth week of the present term and will fall in the third week of March. The criminal docket is to be taken up beginning with March 9th.

The McWilliams case has caused a great deal of local interest. The negro was removed to a neighbor-

Monday Calls
For Observance
Washington Day

Had not Washington been a dreamer, Valley Forge might have been the graveyard of an immortal attempt instead of the turning point of the birth of a new freedom. Washington had a great dream, great things are always built on the dream basis.

These communities have no finer heritage from Valley Forge than the freedom to dream and dare and do. It is the courage and persistence of great dreamers that give girth to great realities. Persist in your dreams of prosperity, persist in your dreams of a home, of new business, new industries, the growth of your own home towns, new industries, more homes.

In the Albany-Decatur chamber of commerce lies a valuable ally to the dream to help in the gaining of industrial independence for the cities.

The local lodge plans to make the Monday meeting the most successful convention ever held by the organization in this end of the state and committees have been busy on the details for many weeks.

Poison Gas Of the Mine
Made Early Efforts
at Rescue Futile

(Associated Press)

SULLIVAN, Ind., Feb. 21—A handful of weary, grief-worn women waited at the top of the City Coal company mines today for their "boys" while a score of men toiled underground to recover the bodies of 34 of the 51 miners entombed in an explosion yesterday.

A cave-in early today halted for several hours the work of rescue, after 17 bodies had been taken out.

After-damp, the dread poison gas of the mines, made first attempts to recover the bodies precarious and part of the night was spent in repairing the ventilating system. A new supply of fresh air made it possible for crews to penetrate the wrecked underground passages, after the debris from the cave-in was cleared away.

The blast trapped the men working in little rooms off the third, fourth, seventh and eighth entries of the mine. A flash of flame quickly consumed all the life-sustaining oxygen and the concussion of the explosion brought down loose coal and a shower of mine timber.

Mine experts said a cutting machine working close to the wall of an abandoned mine, had cut through a partition releasing a flood of gas that had accumulated in the old working. A flame from a miners lamp ignited the gas and caused the explosion.

Rescuers were hopeful that all the bodies remaining in the pit would be recovered today. The local chapter of the Business and Professional women's clubs undertook the task of ministering to the group of women at the mine. The Red Cross gave attention to the needs of stricken families. In four instances fathers and sons were victims.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—Cotton spinning showed increased activity in January as compared with December last and about the same as in January a year ago, the census bureau statistics today indicate.

The average number of spindles operated in January was 36,503,376 or at 96.4 per cent capacity on a single shift basis, compared with 34,241,240 or at 90.4 per cent capacity in December last and 36,476,177 or at 96.7 per cent capacity in January a year ago.

Folks Will Be On the Streets for "Get Acquainted Day"

Monday has been designated as "Get Acquainted" Day. Officials interested in the extension of the friendly hand have been notified that quite a few visitors from the surrounding section will come into the cities to grasp the hand of the town brother. Numbers of local people have signified their intention of being on the streets for that day. The spirit of friendliness and cordiality is to abound. The main thoroughfares of the cities are to be crowded with citizens looking for old friends and meeting new.

The Louisville and Nashville shops will be closed for the day and word from that section of the cities is to the effect that a great number of the men and their families are planning to be in town rather than just spending a holiday at home by the hearthstone.

The four banking institutions of the cities will close in observance on Monday, the day being declared a legal holiday all over the nation.

The other negro was charged with drunkenness and fined $25.00 and costs the maximum fine. This arrest was made by city officers Hendrix and McCall.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bancifit of Hartselle, well known residents of that community are to get treatment to prevent infection, following bites received by a pet squirrel at their home. The head of the animal, it was disclosed at the Tennessee Valley Laboratory here, showed the pet was mad.

A dog at the home was believed to have bitten the squirrel several days ago. Dr. White advised the family to keep the squirrels up and, if they died, to send their heads to the laboratory for examination for rabies.

Death of the squirrels was said to have followed the attack by the dog in a few days. The heads then were sent here with the result that the examination showed "positive."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—The Los Angeles which flew to Bermuda during the night from Lakehurst, left on return journey at 10:10 o'clock this morning, the navy department was informed by radio.

The giant airship did not attach herself to the mooring mast of the tender Patoka, as had been intended, owing to weather conditions.

Arriving in sight of Bermuda at 4:45 o'clock the Los Angeles cruised about over the islands for several hours. The sky was overcast and it was found that difficulties in the way of mooring were too great.

In returning without mooring, the officers on the Los Angeles followed a previously mapped plan, naval department officials said, which provided for a quick return if weather conditions were not favorable to the plan originally outlined.

DEMONSTRATIONS OF POULTRY HELD

Eight Citizens of This County Co-operate With Specialist

By J. C. Ford, County Agent

Eight Morgan County farmers and farm women are carrying flock demonstrations in poultry management in co-operation with the extension service of the college of agriculture. They are D. H. McClellan of Crownston, L. M. Aday of Pleasant Hill, F. W. Glasgow of Neel, Mrs. Luther Adcock, of near Penn school, Mrs. Andrew J. Jones, Falkville, E. J. Brown, Gandy's Cove, M. G. Julian of Ryan and R. E. Boyer of near Gum Springs.

Good crowds of interested men and women met the poultry specialist, and me at most of these places when we made our round the last of January. It was very interesting to note that the demonstration flocks fed, as nearly as conditions would permit, according to recommendations were laying heavily and had been all winter, while others attending the meetings reported very few eggs and some of them none at all. During the month of January some of these flocks made $15 to $25 profit, after paying for plenty of good feed; while neighboring flocks were wasting their owner's corn-eating it up and giving nothing in return.

To get eggs in winter when the price is high, Mr. Gardner, the specialist, recommends hatching off pullets of the larger breeds in March and Leghorns in April. If they are properly grown out, they should begin laying about November 1st and keep it up all winter. Of course good feed and management helps too.

HORTON RECEIVES REPORT OF JURORS

Thirty-Six True Bills Are Returned In Circuit Court

Thirty-six true bills were returned by the grand jury organized by the circuit court which went into session on last Monday and was adjourned on Friday afternoon after being at work for the past five days in investigating sixty-six cases that were brought to their attention. The official bonds of county officers were looked into and found to be well and securely bonded.

The report submitted below tells of the condition of the Morgan County jail as being sanitary and well kept. The jail was likewise reported to be safe for the keeping of prisoners and it was found that the prisoners upon being interviewed all expressed themselves as being well treated and cared for.

The county poor house was brought before the grand jury and it was recommended that the county commissioners authorize work on the roof of all the houses. The inmates were found to be well clothed and excellent care being taken of them.

The complete report as given Judge James E. Horton is herewith submitted:

To the honorable James E. Horton, Judge of the 8th Judicial circuit:

We, the grand jury of Morgan County impanelled by your honor on Monday the 16th day of February, here-with submit our final report and beg to be discharged.

We have inquired into all indictable offenses given in charge by your honor and brought to our attention, and as result thereof we have inquired into 66 cases and have returned 36 true bills.

We examined the official bonds of the county officers, and find them all to be well and securely bonded. We find that all county officers who have in their possession any public funds are bonded with a surety company which is authorized to do business in the State of Alabama. We examined the county jail and find it safe for the keeping of prisoners and in a sanitary condition and very well kept. We questioned a number of prisoners and they all say that they

HEADWAY IN THE TENNESSEE VALLEY

That the Boy Scout movement is making splendid headway in the Tennessee Valley council is indicated by the large number of boys who were examined here Tuesday evening, before the Court of Honor, and passed to the second class.

To those unfamiliar with the work of the organization, it might be explained that the matter of examination and elevation of applications from one class to another, is not lacking in its serious side. When a scout is able to pass the rigid tests, and raise his rating, it means that he has been working hard for the new honor. Examinations for Scout ratings probably are more difficult than those conducted in the military establishments to raise the ratings of non-commissioned officers in the army and petty officers in the navy.

While the Boy Scout movement has its pleasant features fundamentally the work is almost altogether one of serious education, physical upbuilding and character moulding. The Scouts have their play hours and enjoy them immensely, but behind it all, the movement is intended, and succeeds amazingly well, in inculcating in the members a desire to have strong bodies, well developed and clean minds.

The Daily is informed that another session of the Court of Honor will be held here in March, at which time the 35 boys who passed their second class examination Tuesday evening will be eligible to try for first class badges. The Daily believes that every parent who will attend this March meeting will discover many things about Scoutcraft which may have obscure before.

SUNDAY IS "GO TO CHURCH DAY."
DO NOT REMAIN ON THE OUTSIDE

Sunday has been designated as "Go to Church Day" by the Governor of Alabama. The Governor didn't issue such a proclamation just to have something to say to the public. There was a purpose behind it. Governor Brandon meant, with the issuance of the proclamation, that every man, woman, and child in the state of Alabama go to church on next Sunday. After Sunday they are expected to acquire the habit and not have to force the executive of the state to call their attention to the fact that the church doors are open on Sunday that they might worship Him, who died that all others might be saved.

Albany-Decatur church doors represent every worthy while denomination that exists. Albany-Decatur offers adequate seating capacity, comfort in warm and cold weather. Albany-Decatur ministers ask only that you come and hear.

Look into your own soul and there you will find a thirst for religious teaching. You will find that it does not pay you within yourself to stand back and let your neighbor go to church. You may stay at home and assume that you are just as good and righteous as the next fellow who is a regular church attendant, but within yourself you thoroughly understand that you are standing upon false ground and maintaining a false front. There is nothing so soothing or so restful as the peace of the soul. Going to church will aid in the realization of such a feeling. Realization will come that there is a brother next to you ready to aid you should you stumble in the path that religion alone can set, the only path that is offered for the people today to benefit by following.

The churches are open Sunday for your own benefit and teaching, not for any personal gain of the minister. Go to the church of your choice, make Sunday the greatest religious day in the history of the cities.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Taxes paid or accrued during the taxable year are deductible within limitations prescribed by the revenue act of 1924. Such items include taxes on personal property and real estate, whether business or residential. So-called taxes assessed against local benefits, such as street paving or drainage, which tend to increase value of the property assessed, are not deductible, since they are considered as constituting the cost of a permanent improvement.

The Federal income taxes may not be deducted. Other Federal taxes, however, are deductible. Examples of miscellaneous occupational taxes are taxes on proprietors of shooting galleries, pool rooms, bowling alleys, custom-house brokers and stock brokers. The Federal estate tax is deductible from the gross income of the estate of a decedent in ascertaining the net income of the estate subject to tax.

Postage is not a tax. It is a payment for a service. It is not an allowable deduction as a tax or otherwise to a person not engaged in business. To a person engaged in business, it is an allowable deduction as a business expense.

GENERAL BULLARD HAS LOST NONE

OF HIS LOVE FOR THE SOUTH

General Robert Lee Bullard, of Alabama, following signal service for the nation, in turn, has been signally honored by the nation, but it has failed to cool his love for the South. General Bullard was given to the whole country by the Opelika section of Alabama and The Opelika News recently published a letter, written by General Bullard, in which the latter denied that he would have preferred to have been named for General Sherman than for Robert E. Lee.

A short time ago, The News says, an article was published in The Literary Digest in which General Bullard was quoted as saying:

"How did I happen to be named Robert Lee?" he was asked. "Well you see, it was a common practice in the south in those days and I was not prepared to object. I'd rather have been named for Sherman, but it couldn't be done in those days—in fact, it's a bit difficult now in the south."

"I think, though, that Sherman has influenced me more as a soldier than any other man. I admire his methods for their efficiency and after forty-three years in the service I'm prepared to agree with what he said about war."

Following his publication, General Bullard wrote a letter to R. M. Greene, a personal friend, denying the statements attributed to him as follows:

Hotel Wellington,
7th Ave., and 55th St.,
New York City,

February 18, 1925

Dear Sir:

Of course I said no such stuff. As a matter of fact I was not baptised until I was seven or eight years old and I gave myself the name, Robert Lee, to the surprise as well as pleasure of my family, who had really intended me to have the names of my grandfathers, although they had sometimes called me by the name "Leroy" (after an uncle by marriage). Signed

R. L. BULLARD.

A TRAIN OF THOUGHTS
for the Sabbath and Other Days

By J. E. Blair

Unless his work lifts the worker, it is a curse. But to state the matter more fairly—unless workers are uplifted they are "curses." In a word "it is up to the individual as to whether his employment lifts or lowers. No employments, except of course engaged in for sinful purposes are degrading. Again, it is idle to discuss whether or not "good" or adverse conditions make or mar. We are taught that "a rough sea makes a skillful sailor;" but not always. We are taught that character is born in the womb of adversity; but true character is born of God. If a census were taken showing the good and great of earth, some would be on the list, who have always "worn soft garments and dwelt in King's palaces." Abraham was not poor. He was wealthy. But Abraham was the father of the faithful. In our day, there is at least one good and great man who has always "worn soft garments"—Bishop James Cannon, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. To prove that Bishop is great—he went through mud and water up to his arm pits in Africa. But that is not what proved him great. Many who go through the hardest things are as mean as the devil desires. Because Bishop Cannon regarded his hard experience as merely "a great adventure for God," proved his greatness. It remains to be said, however, that the great creative geniuses, those who have had most from God have "come up out of great tribulations." Moses was born a slave. He was left to the mercy of a heathen Princess. He was forced to live apart from his own people. He was all but forced to commit murder. He was an exile in the land of Midian for 40 years. But Moses became God's great lawyer. He handed the ten commandments, a code by side of which the laws of Lycurgus and his kind, look like the proverbial "thirty cents."

Moses, once a slave boy, by many is considered a more powerful character than St. Paul, himself. And Paul was a child of adversity, despite his high educational advantages. He wrought among "false brethren," amid perils by land and sea, and finally was murdered by a cruel government. But, single handed in a few short years St. Paul destroyed the integrity of heathen world worship; and almost single handed Paul transmitted Christianity to the world at-large, in its purity, but stripped of all Judaism. Yes, Paul strove under the most adverse circumstances. He was alone. He was loved by only a few. But Paul was "in labors more abundant" than any other Christian man. Paul knew how to be exalted and how to be humbled—and every other man, who is a true one, must learn the same lesson. It is indeed idle to say that either good or bad environment make people what they are; for men are creators. Men by God's help control their circumstances. It might be said in passing that it may be a compliment from God—when He allows an aversity to a man. For it tends to show that God considers him "strong and of a good courage" and too true to Him to "crack" amid adversity. Granted the man of the most ability and initiative and goodness have "come up out of great tribulation—that is not all—such men must have "washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb." Still stands the scripture challenge—"Show me the man who has come up out of great tribulation except through Christ!" Socrates was the best the ancient non-Christian world could produce—but Socrates was not true to Zantippe! Seneca, or some such Roman man has been touted up by agnostic writers as a Christian who did not know that he was; but that Roman committed suicide! Let the person present himself, who except through Christ, who has overcome the world?

FORMER WIZARD OF
THE KLAN INJUREDColonel Simmons And Morris Moore Are In Auto Wreck

(Associated Press)

ATLANTA, Feb. 21.—Colonel W. J. Simmons, of Atlanta, former imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan and Morris Moore, of Houston, Texas, superior knight recorded of the Knights of the Flaming Sword, which Simmons now heads, were probably fatally injured in an automobile accident last night, 20 miles from Gainesville, Ga., it was learned here today.

The two men were taken to a hospital at Gainesville, and it was reported today that Colonel Simmons had suffered a punctured lung and that both collar bones had been broken. Mr. Moore's neck was broken, the report said.

I. R. Rainier, of Atlanta, who is connected with the Knights of the Flaming Sword, escaped injury. The three men were en route to Colonel Simmons' home in Northern Georgia on an organization trip and travelling over the highway, the machine struck a soft spot in the road and plunged down an embankment.

As soon as aid could be summoned an ambulance was sent from Gainesville and the two injured men taken there for examination and operations which physicians were planning to perform today.

Dear Sir:

Of course I said no such stuff. As a matter of fact I was not baptised until I was seven or eight years old and I gave myself the name, Robert Lee, to the surprise as well as pleasure of my family, who had really intended me to have the names of my grandfathers, although they had sometimes called me by the name "Leroy" (after an uncle by marriage).

Signed

Going to Drive the Old Car This Spring

Why not—and save the cost of a new one?

Never mind if the paint does look shabby. We will take care of that. A new finish by our varnish process and the old car will look like new. And it will stay that way a long time, too. Varnish is not an experimental fad. It is the old standard of finishing cars, adhered to by most manufacturers of high class automobiles.

Drive around tomorrow.

SECOND AVENUE, ALBANY

SUNDAY DESIGNATED AS 'CHURCH DAY'

Attendance Of Every Person At Church Being Urged

Governor W. W. Brandon has designated Sunday, February 22, George Washington's birthday, as "state wide church and Sunday school day." He calls on all citizens of all denominations to attend church and Sunday school by families on that day. He says: "religious education is the corner stone of good citizenship."

The great minds of the time are alive to the value of religious training and of spirituality in developing the four square life. They agree that the future of the nation depends upon the preservation and the propagation of the ideals and the practice of the Christian religion.

Judge Elbert Gary, president of the American Iron and Steel Institute at the annual meeting said: "there is only one way of fairly and finally settling any controversy or question and that is in consonance with the principles of the Christian religion. What was wrought the great changes of the last 2,500 years? Read history. Read Paul's epistles. It is simple business sense; it pays a nation or an individual to follow the Christian religion."

One of the last published utterances of the lamented and honored Woodrow Wilson was "Our civilization cannot survive materially unless it be redeemed spiritually."

"The breaking down of the Seventh Day of Rest means the doom of the home and of the church. These with the schools are the foundations of our civilization. To turn the day into a day of worldliness means in the end destruction. The proper observance of the day is the duty of good citizens and it is an economic necessity."

Efforts are being made by churches and organizations over the state and in the local community to fill the church houses Sunday. Let every citizen forward this movement for the good of the soul of men and the future of our land.

The proclamation follows:

Whereas, the Alabama Council of Christian education is promoting a State-wide campaign to eliminate religious illiteracy and teach every child and youth of the rural districts the word of God, and

Whereas, there is an unnumbered multitude of children and young people throughout the state with no religious training whatever, and

Whereas, religious education is the very corner stone of good citizenship; and the supreme need of this generation is a four square citizenship that can meet the social problems of the time with hearts of faith and courage, and

Whereas, the four-square life is developed only through careful training mentally, physically, religiously and socially, and

Whereas, we celebrate on the 22nd day of February the anniversary of that pre-eminent statesman who said: "There can be no national morality without religion," therefore

I, William W. Brandon, Governor of the State of Alabama do hereby proclaim the week of February 22, 1925, "Religious Educational Week" and designate Sunday, February 22nd as State-wide Church and Sunday school day, and call upon the citizens everywhere within the borders of our domain, all creeds and denominations, to attend in families the churches of their choice, and to co-operate in enlisting children, youths and adults in the churches and Sunday schools of our state.

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State to be fixed at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, on this the 13th day of January in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five.

BILIOUS ATTACKS

From Which Kentucky Man Suffered Two or Three Times a Month, Relieved by Black-Draught.

Lawrenceburg, Ky.—Mr. J. P. Nevins, a local coal dealer and farmer, about two years ago learned of the value of Thedford's Black-Draught liver medicine, and now he says:

"Until then I suffered with severe bilious attacks that came on two or three times each month. I would get nauseated. I would have dizziness and couldn't work.

"I would take pills until I was worn-out with them. I didn't seem to get relief. After taking the pills my bowels would act a couple of times, then I would be very constipated."

"A neighbor told me of Black-Draught and I began its use. I never have found so much relief as it gave me. I would not be without it for anything."

"It seemed to cleanse my whole system and make me feel like new. I would take a few doses—get rid of the bile and have my usual clear head, feel full of 'pep' and could do twice the work."
